

City Line Development Continues As New Movie Theatre Is Planned

A motion picture theater will probably be the next addition to the fast-growing shopping area around 54th St. and City Line Ave. Plans for the theater are being drawn up by William H. Fishman, Philadelphia theater owner, who will locate it at 115 City Line Ave., three blocks north of the intersection of 54th St.

The proposed location is on the Lower Merion side of City Line near the site of the million-dollar retail furniture store to be erected by the Joseph B. Van Sciver Company on City Line between Hampton Terrace and Bryn Mawr Ave.

Fishman, who had petitioned the Lower Merion Township Zoning Board of Adjustment for an exception to the zoning ordinance, this week temporarily withdrew the appeal pending the completion of plans for the structure.

The special exception sought was to allow 60 feet in the residentially zoned area to be used for parking. The site for the theater building itself is zoned commercially. Both lots measure 100 feet in depth.

Under the recently passed township parking ordinance, off-street parking must be provided for the theater patrons. The commercially zoned property is not sufficient to allow room for both the theater and parking space.

A hearing by the board was to have been held tonight.

Within the last few years additions to the section have included the Food Fair retail store at 53rd and City Line, built in 1945, and the Thomas-Coulter Dodge-Plymouth Sales and Service Agency, at Maple Ave., on a line with 52nd St.

One of the first large establishments built in the area was the Horn and Hardart Restaurant on the corner of 54th and City Line, erected in January, 1942.

Ultimately this area is expected to rival the 69th St. shopping center, which was largely the development of John H. McClatchy. In contrast, the City Line development is being planned by different groups, although many of the contracts are being handled by J. Franklin Moss and Co., Merion builders.

B-M Woman Falls From Paoli Local Dies Wednesday Night As Result of Injuries

Mrs. David Goodbread, 60, of the Montgomery Inn, Bryn Mawr, succumbed late Wednesday night of injuries received after falling from the Pennsylvania Railroad's Paoli Local train at the Overbrook station earlier this week.

She was taken to the Wynnefield Hospital where physicians said she suffered the loss of two fingers of her left hand and back injuries.

According to Philadelphia police, Mrs. Goodbread climbed from the train after it had already discharged passengers and was moving out of the station.

The motion, police said, caused her to lose her footing and she fell into the roadbed between the station platform and tracks. Norman Duckett, 59, of Philadelphia, who had just alighted, held her firmly against the platform to prevent her rolling against the train and cautioned her not to move.

In her fall, however, she stretched out her left arm to brace herself and her fingers were caught and crushed under the flange of the train wheel.

Escort York Girl To Phila. Hosp.

3 L-M Policemen Assist In Race Against Death

Lower Merion Township patrolmen Philip Minnis, Howard Miller and Les Martin last Thursday afternoon assisted in a race against death for a York, Pa., youngster who had swallowed an open safety pin a few hours earlier.

The child, 15-month-old Drinda A. Warner, was brought by automobile from York to the Jefferson Hospital bronchoscopic clinic, where she was operated on and the pin removed.

The automobile was escorted at an 80-mile-an-hour pace by policemen of the various townships and counties between York and Philadelphia. The three Lower Merion officers picked up the car from Devon State police on Lancaster Ave. at County Line Rd., Rosemont, and rushed it through to Philadelphia police at City Ave., Overbrook, in a matter of minutes.

One of the Philadelphia police escorts, Robert Nutter, was injured when the journey was almost completed. He was thrown from his motorcycle when struck by an automobile about a block from the hospital entrance.

College Whirl

Dear Dottie,

Never work. It's very unhealthy activity. leaves you utterly worn out, and is not nearly so much fun as college and partying. I see many of the old crowd on the train going in and coming out each day, but have yet to find one who has anything kind to say about the idea of working.

Bill Fuchs is to the point where he's going to have to start working for the rest of his life, and judging from his record, he may have kept pretty busy while he was in school. Bill has just graduated from the University of Pennsylvania Law School, and was on the Editorial Board of the University of Pennsylvania Law Review. Bill's been spending a good deal of his spare time over at the Merion Post of the American Legion.

It's taken me almost a month, but I think I've finally congratulated all the local people whom I saw receive degrees at the commencement exercises at Temple University. Eileen Anderson and Jean Haig received their Bachelor of Arts degree, and they both picked up a nice sultan at the ceremony, which was held under a very bright sun at Temple Stadium. Bob Smith also received a degree from the College of Liberal Arts and Science, but his was a Master's Degree. Carlisle King and I exchanged shop talk about Pennsylvania law when I ran into him over in Penn Wynne; he received an LL.B. from Temple. I don't know how many Philadelphia lawyers have told me that graduates of Harvard and Yale Law Schools know a lot about economics and government and philosophy of law and things like that, but that they can't hold a candle to a Temple Law School graduate when it comes to trying a case or drawing a will.

Mei Bowman of Ardmore received the degree of Master of Education from Temple, while Sylvia Cohen and Louisa D'Alonzo were getting their B. S. in Ed. Bob Robertson has already started his internship, having finished medical school, and the Reverend Mr. Tate, of Ardmore Presbyterian Church, was awarded the degree of Master of Sacred Theology.

You may remember that lots of the kids from school took an exam toward the end of our senior year, hoping to win the state scholarship which is awarded on the basis of a competitive examination to one student from each county or state senatorial district. The results of this year's competition have just been announced, and Shawn Eric Lewis, of Merion, was the winner from Montgomery County.

And speaking of scholarships, Lewis S. Mudge, Jr. is one of the two national figures of the Parashad Youth Week Scholarship awards. Lewis, who is a student at Prince-

2d Spotted Fever Case Is Reported

Bryn Mawr Man Became Ill July 8

Lower Merion Township's second case of Rocky Mountain spotted fever for this year was reported Tuesday by the township board of health.

The latest victim, whose case is described as mild by Dr. Joseph Sands, of Rosemont, is Rowland E. Roberts, 44, of Woodleave Rd., Bryn Mawr, a distant relative of one of Lower Merion's most distinguished citizens, the late Percival Roberts, of Penn Valley, nationally known steel executive.

Roberts, who is associated with Preview's, Inc., a Philadelphia real estate firm, became ill July 8 and his case was diagnosed as Rocky Mountain spotted fever Tuesday.

According to Dr. Sands, Roberts could not recall finding a tick, the usual source of the fever. He is being treated at home. A graduate of Princeton University, he is married and has two sons, Rowland E., Jr., 20, a Princeton student, and Edward, 11.

The township's first case was that of Mrs. Eleanor Townsend, 38, of Righters Mill Rd., Gladwyne, who was treated at Bryn Mawr Hospital for the fever early in June. Wife of Philip Townsend, Philadelphia stock broker, Mrs. Townsend was bitten by a tick May 30. Her case was diagnosed as such on June 8.

Before entering Princeton, Jim was a leader at Lower Merion High School. He was valedictorian of the class of 1946, member of the National Honor Society, president of the Student Council, and captain of the soccer and baseball teams.

At Princeton he is active in soccer and dramatics, and a member of the staff of the Daily Princetonian.

3d Polio Case Is Reported in Lower Merion

Only One So Far in Haverford Twp.; None in Narberth

Although the Lower Merion Township Board of Health has already reported its third case of infantile paralysis so far this year, neighboring Narberth Borough has as yet remained free of the disease and Haverford Township has had only one case. Radnor Township's first case was reported Wednesday.

Lower Merion's most recent victim is Elizabeth Worrell, 12-year-old Agnes Irwin student, who became ill at her home on Maple Hill Rd., Gladwyne, July 10. Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Granville Worrell, 2d, Elizabeth's illness was diagnosed as polio last Thursday by the family physician, Dr. Joseph Sands, of Rosemont.

According to Dr. Sands, Elizabeth's case is a mild one and she is in good condition. Her father is associated with the Gray & Rogers Advertising Agency, Philadelphia.

Two other Lower Merion children who contracted polio early in June include a 14-year-old Bryn Mawr girl and a three-year-old Haverford girl.

Lower Merion had only two polio cases last year, one of which was fatal, and 45 cases in the three preceding years. Haverford Township had 13 cases with no fatalities.

The first victim this year for Radnor Township is Reed Underhill, five-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Gary M. Underhill, of Farm Rd., Wayne. The youngster, who has a brother and sister, became ill Monday and was taken to Bryn Mawr Hospital the following day.

His case was diagnosed as polio Wednesday morning and was reported to the Radnor Board of Health that afternoon. Underhill is executive vice-president of the Charter Bank of Philadelphia.

Woman Denied Custody of Son

12-Year-Old Lives With Father and Second Wife

Mrs. Mildred Elsie Ristine Jenkins, of 21 W. Lancaster Ave., Ardmore, was denied custody of her 12-year-old son this week by Judge Harold K. Knight at Norristown.

Mrs. Jenkins brought the habeas corpus proceedings for the custody of Richard W. Ristine Loader, 12, on June 17. She named as defendants Alfred Loader, the boy's father, and his wife, Catherine Loader, both of Norristown.

The boy was born April 5, 1936, and lived with his maternal grandparents in Conshohocken for two years. Then he was taken by his father with whom he has lived since, except for a period while his father was in the service and the child was placed in a foster home. When Loader was discharged he bought a home in Norristown, where he and his wife live with their two younger children and Richard.

According to the court's findings, the boy does not know his mother or his proposed stepfather.

"There is no doubt," commented the court, "he wants to remain with his father, and the thought of removing him from his home fills him with alarm bordering on terror. . . . After considering all the evidence and factors involved, we are of the opinion that the best interest and permanent welfare of this child require that we award custody to his father."

The costs were placed on the mother, who refused yesterday to disclose whether or not she plans to take any further action.

Letter to the Editor

Dear Sir:

It's time the citizens, the workers, the chairmen and all who are interested, should know exactly where Lower Merion Township stands as regards the 1948 Cancer Crusade. We citizens are mighty proud of our community and of the wonderful cooperation we have received. The Cancer Crusade is still going on in some places. Officially Lower Merion Township is finished, and did a magnificent job. Our quota was $31,500, and when it did not look too well, Headquarters reduced it to $29,000. We actually raised $32,918.30 and if any of you living in Lower Merion Township don't think that is gargantuan, considering the month the drive was active, I will eat my shoes. Every man, woman and child who participated either in April, May, even June, should pat himself on the back.

A lot of amusing things and incidents with paths have transpired in the past several months in connection with the drive. The woman who kept her money in the refrigerator, as she was timid it might be stolen, should be proud. Hope to Avoid Autocar Strike

Union and Management Hold Extended Meetings

Representatives of Autocar union workers and management held an extended meeting Wednesday in an endeavor to iron out their differences and avoid a strike.

The meeting was called by C. S. Clevenger, federal conciliator, after a strike vote by Local 131, United Auto Workers, CIO, was approved by the international executive board.

The union's strike vote was taken last Thursday following a breakdown of wage agreement negotiations. At a meeting in the basement of St. Colman's Church, 897 members voted in favor of striking and 166 against.

This decision was then transmitted to Martin Gerber, regional director of the UAW, and Walter P. Reuther, international president, for approval. Gerber stated on Wednesday that this approval had been given.

Lou Young, 56, Penn Ex-Coach, Died on Monday

'Builder of Men' at U. of P. Was Narberth Resident for 24 Years

Louis Alonzo (Lou) Young, of 410 Grove Place, Narberth, former varsity football coach at the University of Pennsylvania, died Monday morning at Chestnut Hill Hospital. He was 56.

Mr. Young, a resident of Narberth for 24 years, and a member of the Borough council for four years, entered the hospital last Wednesday after collapsing while on a vacation at Cape May. A cerebral hemorrhage caused his death.

Funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon from Oliver Bair's and interment was in the family burial plot near Atlantic City, N. J.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Mary Sweeney Young, a sister of George Sweeney, former Penn basketball star; five children, Louis A., Jr., John P., Henry Stewart, Mary M., and Barbara Jane; a brother Raymond V. Young, of Paris, France, and three grandchildren.

A graduate of Northeast High School, Mr. Young entered Penn in 1910 at the age of 17. He played end on the varsity football team in his sophomore year and was captain of the team in his senior year. He graduated in the class of 1914 as a civil engineer.

Following his graduation he served as a volunteer coach at Penn for several years and was appointed assistant coach in 1920. He was appointed head coach in 1923, a post he held until 1929.

Known as a "builder of men," during that period Penn's team won 49 games, lost 15 and tied 2. Two of the losses were in post-season games, both against the University of California.

He coached four All-Americans during his regime. They were Ed McGinley, a tackle in 1924; George Thayer, an end in 1925; John Smith, a tackle in 1927; and Paul Seull, halfback in 1928.

He resigned in 1929 to devote more time to business. In 1930 he

Draft Boards To Be Merged

Lower Merion, Narberth Groups to Consolidate

The old Lower Merion Township and Narberth Borough draft boards Nos. 3 and 4, which functioned throughout the war years and were closed last March, 1947, will be reopened and consolidated into board No. 107, with headquarters in Bryn Mawr, it was learned last week.

Although a definite location has not yet been announced and board members not appointed, the new headquarters will probably be at the former Lower Merion site in the Community Building, Lancaster and Bryn Mawr Aves., Bryn Mawr.

Draft registration, according to a proclamation by President Truman, is to be made by youths 18 through 25, inclusive, from August 30 through September 18. Instructions, however, General Louis B. Hershey, Selective Service director, said this week, will probably not begin until October 1 and possibly later.

Old Fiddlers' Picnic To Be Held August 7

The annual Old Fiddlers' picnic and reunion will be held on Saturday, August 7, at Lenape Park, on the Brandywine near West Chester.

The frolic, under the chairmanship of Chris Sanderson, of Chadds Ford, Pa., will begin in the morning and last until midnight.

All musicians and their friends are invited for a day of old-fashioned fun. Last year 20,000 people from seven states attended the picnic.

Lower Merion Planning Commission To Survey River Rd. Zoning

All undeveloped property along River Rd. in Lower Merion Township will be surveyed by the township planning commission, it was revealed this week.

The survey was asked by the commissioners after a petition was heard by them June 16 asking a town-grade in the zoning of a 69-acre Gladwyne tract overlooking the Schuylkill River.

The petitioners, the Home Life Insurance Co. of America, Philadelphia, and the board to love, the zoning from R-1 to R-1A and R-2 of their property off of River Rd. along Waverly Rd., where they plan to erect about 25 homes.

Represented by attorney Edwin W. Semans, of Wynnewood, they pointed out that the land in question overlooked both the Reading Railroad along River Rd., and a factory with two large smokestacks across the river. They impractical to erect the expensive type home necessary for R-1 residential areas.

Francis Pitkins, executive director of the State Planning Board, hired as a consultant by the petitioners, commended the township officials for "freezing" large undeveloped areas of the township in the high R-1 classification when the zoning was laid out many years ago.

He said, however, that the commissioners should recognize the necessity of altering such zoning when development was contemplated in areas of this sort where the disadvantages would be prohibitive to the selling power of expensive R-1 homes.

The petition was opposed by the Gladwyne Civic Association and more than 50 residents of the community. They said if uncontrolled building developments were allowed in Gladwyne, the result would be serious congestion and traffic hazards as well as an overloading of fire-fighting and school facilities.

A civic association representative, C. Winton Ballis, pointed out that the Gladwyne residents were relying on zoning restrictions to protect their investments and to safeguard the country atmosphere which was one of the main attributes of the suburban community.

Ardmore Rotarians Hear Talk on Slater System

The Ardmore Rotary Club, at their meeting last Thursday at the Haverford Court Hotel, heard Jim Hutton speak on the Slater System.

This system is one whereby exceptional food is served in a business establishment at unusually low cost with management assuming the loss between the selling price of the food and its cost.

Hutton joined the system in 1935, and now serves as vice-president.

New member, Richard F. Brookfield, was inducted by Harold Watt.

This Thursday George Hosterman will act as chairman of the day to introduce Bill Glenney.

THINKING OUT LOUD

Copyright 1948 by CHARLES A. WRIGHT

All Burned Up

We are in the season when the most frequently heard remark is "Ouch, my sunburn!" and when the surest way to lose a friend is to give him a friendly pat on the back.

In spite of all the warnings that are issued about excessive exposure to the sun and in spite of all the lions that are supposed to give you a lifeguard tan without a bit of burn, the crop of sunburn sufferers seems as large as ever.

The Young Man of our family was a bit surprised when he came back from a seashore weekend looking like a boiled "wet" and feeling like a frankfurter that has been held over the coals too long. "Why, I was only on the beach three hours," he said.

And a young lady of our acquaintance has been nursing, not only her sunburn, but also her indignation against her cruel and heartless father. Seems that he wouldn't agree to her plan to stay home from work all week to recover. That's the trouble with the Older Generation. They don't care how their children suffer.

Among the myriad of remedies we've been hearing, that of the young lady from Longport appears classic. According to her reasoning, the best thing is to go down to the beach and get more sunburn. That sounds akin to the old head-ache remedy: hit yourself on the head with a chair.

In the old days, a victim of sunburn could say: "Watch my shoulders!" With the modern type of bathing suit, you can't localize the burned area that way; you just get overcooked all over.

We would be the last one to protest the modern type bathing suit, especially as worn by certain members of the gentler sex, but we suspect that after a sunburn session some of the gals yearn for a return of the good old Mother Hubbard.

And that some of the virile young men wish their costumes had included jerseys with long sleeves; the kind that are neatly lettered: "Smith's Bath Houses."

We hate to date ourself this way, but we can remember when a girl's bathing costume included shoes, stockings and a skirt, as well as the basic garments. And when the poor, embarrassed beach policeman at Atlantic City had to arrest any hussies whose skirts were more than four inches above their knees!

Each year the magazines describe the current bathing suits as "the ultimate." And invariably the next year's suits expose a bit more white space to the warming rays of the sun.

We are gradually becoming accustomed to swimming in only a pair of trunks, but we still don't trust them. We miss the sense of security of the days when a man's bathing trunks were firmly anchored to the top. In those days you couldn't lose your bathing suit unless your arms fell off. Nowadays we hardly dare take a deep breath.

It is surprising that a pair of trunks that feel so tight when they are dry can loosen up so quickly when you hit the water. We have developed a new one-armed swimming stroke that amazes spectators at the pool. They don't know that our other arm is busy holding our trunks in place.

Nobody has yet developed a belt which will do the trick for us and we don't like to use thumb tacks.

We should be accustomed to swimming in trunks only, because we did some of our earliest swimming that way. But that was in Murphy's Swimming Pool, in West Philadelphia, which was for men and boys only. There was a six-foot board fence all around which protected our modesty, except from anyone who might have looked out an adjoining second story window.

Murphy's Pool was in back of Murphy's Saloon, which was why a lot of us boys considered it a bit beneath our social level. But on a hot summer day it was the only place we could go swimming for a dime.

Habitués of the saloon didn't have to pay for a swim. They could take that instead of the free lunch.

A pair of 10-cent-store trunks was also considered the proper attire at another swimming hole we visited in our boyhood days. That was in the pond in back of the car-barn at Folson, Pa.

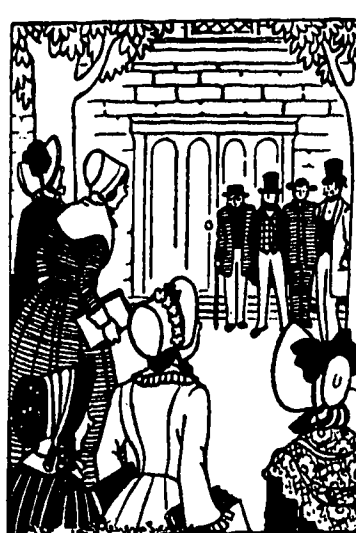

Some of the boys who swam there didn't bother with trunks, but they had to stay under water when the constable came by or when a girl walked along the railroad tracks next to the pond.

All of the used oil from the car-barn was dumped into the pond and floated to the surface of the water. It was one place where you were dirtier after a swim than before. But in those days you were expected to "eat your peck of dirt."

You don't have to eat any dirt at the pool where our youngsters do most of their swimming. It's at a beautiful lake surrounded by woods, where there are flower beds and diving boards and where lifeguards are always on duty. The bath-houses are kept almost spotless. There are picnic tables and fire-places so you can make a day of it. The parking lot has room for nearly a hundred cars.

But it's still not perfect. If you lay on the float for three hours you are likely to get painfully sunburned. It's a shame. Somebody should do something about that.

This Week in History

In Seneca Falls, N. Y., 100 years ago this week, a notice appeared in the Seneca Falls Courier labeled "Woman's Right's Convention . . . a long, hard battle for equal rights in which many courageous women took part! Lucretia Mott, Martha Wright, Mary Ann McClintock and Elizabeth Cady Stanton are names closely linked to this great endeavor. In 1919 victory was considered won when the 19th amendment was passed giving woman the right to vote . . . which had long been denied them."

'Ten Little Indians,' Mystery, On College Summer Theatre Stage

"Ten Little Indians," the gripping mystery by Agatha Christie which enjoyed a long run on Broadway, is this week's presentation at the Bryn Mawr College Summer Theatre.

Wednesday's first night audience appreciated the production, which followed two weeks of original plays.

Filled with suspense, the play tells of a group of persons strangely assembled on an island off the Devon Coast. One by one each person is killed and suspicion turns to a different survivor.

John Metcalf, of the Yale Drama School, capably plays the leading part, that of William Blore, formerly of Scotland Yard. Beth Ash, of Swarthmore College, plays the principal feminine role, that of Emily Brent.

The parts of Mr. and Mrs. Rogers, the caretakers, are played by Ted Breining and Betty Jane Zebley. Jervis McMechan, of Detroit, who acted in several of the earlier plays, was the director of this week's production, which will be given again on Friday and Saturday evenings.

As its concluding play, the summer theatre will offer "Stage Door," by Edna Ferber and George S. Kaufman, opening next Wednesday night and continuing through Saturday.

Small Bryn Mawr Fire Attracts Hundreds

A small fire in the kitchen of Hamburg Hearth, 814 Lancaster Ave., Bryn Mawr, Friday night, attracted several hundred spectators, many of whom had just come from the Bryn Mawr Theatre a few doors away.

The fire, which was confined to grease in an electric fryer which had short circuited, was extinguished by the manager, C. B. Slout, of Narberth, before the arrival of firemen from the Bryn Mawr and Ardmore companies.

Except for grease-spattered walls the damage was negligible, according to Slout, and the place was reopened for business almost immediately.

TRAVEL and RESORTS

Atlantic City, the World's Playground

This resort's summer tourist business is expected to reach its peak when the racing season gets underway at the Atlantic City Race Track August 9.

Leading horses from outstanding stables will be seen in action during the 42-day meeting at the nation's newest racing plant on the Black Horse Pike just 13 miles outside the city.

Because the meeting continues through September 25, local businessmen are hopeful that the track will combine with the Miss America Pageant to extend the summer season beyond the usual terminating point on Labor Day. And what is more, there is every indication that will be the case.

Hotels report heavy bookings for the September period, when residents will assure you that the weather and the bathing are better than at any other time of the year. The Pageant gets underway on Labor Day and continues through September 12 with the selection of Miss America climaxed the show on Saturday evening. The track calls attention to the start of the famous beauty and talent competition with the Pageant Handicap, a $10,000 stake race, Labor Day.

Highlight of the race meet, however, comes on its final day, September 25, with the running of the All-American Handicap, a $15,000 stake for three-year-olds and up at one mile and 3/16th. Such fine racers as Talon, Lucky Draw, Conniver, Beauchef, Double Jay, Ram-part, Turbine, all names well known to racing fans as great runners, have been nominated for the special event and September visitors are in for a real thrill.

Miss Constance Ross, of Toronto, Canada, was the bridesmaid, and the niece and nephew of the bridegroom, Virginia Gordon and Thorton Gordon, Jr., were the flower girl and page.

The bridesmaid and the flower girl wore white dotted Swiss dresses made over pale blue foundations. White daisies and delphinium in their hair matched their bouquets.

Nicholas Thauron Gordon was best man for his brother and the ushers were James Sands, of Wawa; F. L. Peter White, of St. James, L. I.; Henry Ridgeway Macy, of Oyster Bay; Morris Frank, of Morristown, N. J.; Edward V. Wright, of Troy, N. Y., and Lester A. Collins, of Morristown, N. J.

A small reception at "Derwyn," the home of the bridegroom's mother, followed the ceremony. The newlyweds will live in Cambridge, Mass., for the summer while Mr. Gordon is doing special work at Harvard University. They will move to Montreal next winter.

Rip Van Winkle wasn't the only one

RIP WENT TO SLEEP one fine, balmy day—and waked up twenty years later to find that he was an old man.

But Rip wasn't very exclusive. Every day men wake up to the fact that they've grown old without realizing it.

And then it's too late to do anything about old-age security for themselves and those dependent on them.

Not that a wide-awake man sits around and worries about growing old. You know it's the most inevitable thing in life—and you have a plan of safe, regular saving that will guarantee financial security. Then you can really forget about age.

Millions of wide-awake men today are guaranteeing their future with the safest and best way of saving—automatic purchases of U. S. Security Bonds.

If you work for salary or wages you can sign up for the Payroll Savings Plan.

If you are in a business or profession and have a checking account you can sign up for the Bond-A-Month Plan.

Either way, the money accumulates automatically—and, at the end of 10 years, you get back $4 for every $3 saved.

And, besides helping yourself you are helping your community and your country—because regular saving is one of the best ways to help stabilize the economy.

Better do something about it quick—before you doze off again.

Wise debt management... Every Bond dollar that is built up in your Government's Treasury is used to retire a dollar of the national debt that is potentially inflationary.

Media, Narberth Still Tied For League Lead; Manoa Falls Behind With 6-0 Loss Against Leader

By HARRY ELLSWORTH

Media and Narberth remained neck-and-neck for the lead in the Main Line League while Manoa fell further behind in the race for the title.

Media blanked Manoa, 6-0, and drubbed Glenolden, 13-4, while Narberth remained a half game behind the Main Liners by stopping Wayne, 5-3, and defeating Ardmore, 6-3.

The leaders entertain seventh place Clifton Heights Saturday afternoon and travel to Narberth Sunday to meet the Boroughites in what may be one of the decisive games of the year.

Sl Slaten, who hurled a two-hitter against Manoa Saturday, will probably pitch for Media against Gene Weinert of Narberth.

Narberth, originally scheduled to play Berwyn on Saturday, will be idle because of the withdrawal of Berwyn from the league. The Pirates, lodged solidly in the league cellar, decided to call it quits last week. Effective July 17 all Berwyn games were cancelled.

Manoa, seeking to regain some lost ground, will play Ardmore at home Saturday and meets fourth place Wayne at Wayne Sunday.

Other Main Line games this week-end finds Wayne at Glenolden Saturday and the Stars at Ardmore Sunday.

Slaten, a veteran right-hander, held Manoa hitless for six innings, giving up singles to Jack Miller and Vince Signorelli as his mates tagged Manoa ace Millard Robinson for 11 hits and six runs.

Lefty Dom Caniglia had an easy time of it as the Media sluggers belted three Glenolden pitchers for 16 hits and a 13-4 win.

Gene Weinert and Bobby Tabor were the winners as Narberth downed Wayne and Ardmore. Weinert allowed the I. A. C. team but five hits while Tabor spaced 10 Ardmore bingles effectively.

Hardluck Johnny Byrne finally gained a victory as Wayne clubbed Clifton Heights, 11-4, Sunday. Babe Young and Fred Skladany were the leading hitters, getting seven of the 15 Wayne hits.

All Berwyn players were declared free agents by Walter Hanley, president of the Main Line League.

Narberth released Frank Comerford and Al Litwa and signed two former Drexel Hill players, Pete D'Ambrosio and Frank Cooney.

The dramatic value of clouds is apparent in this Speed Graphic picture by Noel Fehm. A deep red filter and infra-red film were used to heighten the contrast between sky and clouds.

USE FILTER FOR CLOUDS

Clouds can play a large part in making a scenic picture dramatic. No one enjoys a picture so much if the sky is just a big gray area.

Since it is a tendency for blue to photograph lighter than it looks to the eye, in properly exposed landscapes the bright sky and clouds both come out too light. Yet, if we were to underexpose our picture to make the sky appear more natural, the foreground would suffer from lack of exposure.

The answer lies in a filter which will hold back the extremely bright blue light from the sky but let all other colors pass through unaffected. That filter can be either yellow, red or orange. The deeper the shade, the greater the contrast will be.

For most scenes, a medium yellow filter will provide all the correction necessary. For very dark, spectacular skies, with maximum contrast between clouds and the blue sky, a deep red filter can be used.

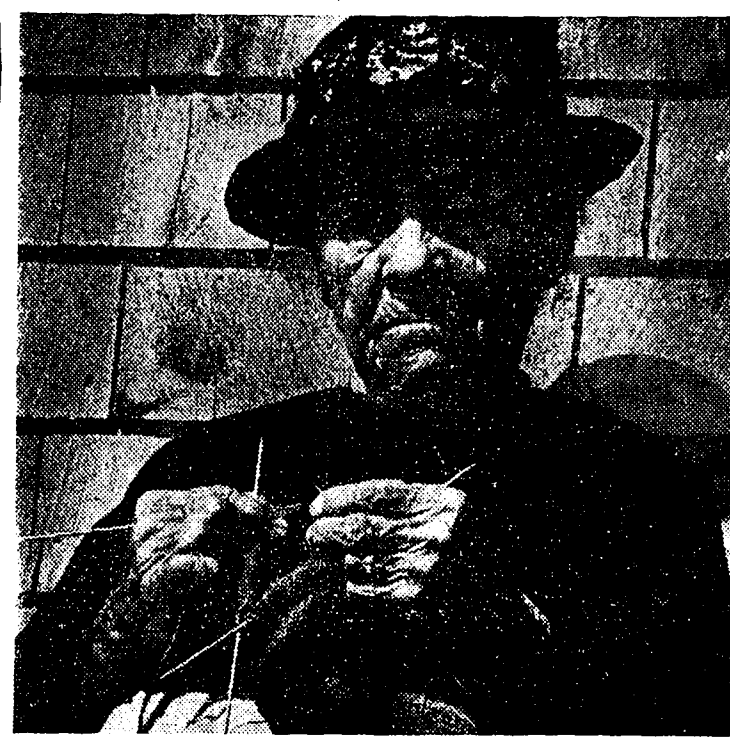

Since we know that a filter holds back some of the light passing through the lens to the film, we must compensate our exposure accordingly. Generally, the darker the filter, the greater the factor. If this factor is two, it means we must double the exposure when using that filter which we would give the scene without it. If the factor is four, we would expose four times as long, and so on.

To double the exposure, you can double the shutter speed or open the diaphragm one stop. To double 1/50 at f/8, you could shoot at 1/25 at f/8 or 1/50 at f/5.6, according to whether depth of field or a fast shutter speed is more important. By doubling either of these settings again we would have the necessary exposure for a factor of four.

Jeepster Attracts Wide Attention at Showing Here

The Jeepster, latest in the familiar line of Jeeps, attracted wide attention when it made its first appearance on the Main Line this week.

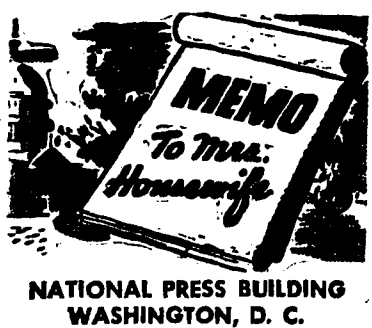

Hardly had the first model arrived at the showroom of Willys-Ardmore, 110 W. Lancaster Ave., Ardmore, on Wednesday when large numbers of persons began arriving to study the lines of the new convertible sports car.

Finished in yellow, with a black trim, and with maroon seat covers and white sidewall tires, the car combines beauty and comfort with Jeep utility. As production increases models will also be available in green and maroon. The Jeepster has a one-man top and other appliances which have made convertible cars so popular.

NATIONAL PRESS BUILDING

WASHINGTON, D. C.

By Anne Goode

There's nothing so satisfying for the summer city dweller, or for a day's trip to town, as a sheer black dress. Nothing so flattering as when accented by a pastel hat or gloves. Pale blue and pink are lovely. Chartreuse is particularly chic.

Meat authorities say housewives pay more for meat because they don't know how to buy it. Some shoppers pay as much as 25 cents a pound more because meat is not properly trimmed.

Flavored honey may be yours for the asking. Tempering with the bees' diet does it. Chocolate, maple, lemon, pineapple and mint flavors are being tried out.

Because real mayonnaise has such a full, rich body, remember to vary it with other ingredients for new and different salad toppings. Catsup, sour cream, fruit juice, blue cheese — any of these, and more, teamed with real mayonnaise make a tasty variation for summer salads.

Predictions are that cost of men's shirts will take a dip this Fall. Reason is that retail inventories are up and many manufacturers are cutting production.

With the cost of other table spreads hitting the moon, isn't it good to know that delicious vitaminized margarine is available at a price most everybody's purse can afford?

Swish and sweet for a party "hat" is veiling, tied becomingly around the head and into a bow at the nape of the neck or at the side. A sequin border is pretty — or one rose at the knot makes a charming accent.

Love those phonograph records — the new 12-inch ones that play as much as an album. Both sides provide an hour's entertainment. They'll be for sale soon.

For baby's soft, silky hair, keep a clean comb and brush. A baking soda solution makes a dandy cleanser for the little one's comb and brush — for yours, too.

Keep summer's white shoes fresh as snow with the oil of shynola, which both cleans and polishes. And remember to use shoe cream dressing for those traces of white that smear the soles.

Because there are spuds and more spuds (maybe they're potatoes to you), the Dept. of Agriculture urges every American homemaker to serve them often. And to you dieters, nutritionists say it's not potatoes, but WHAT you put on them that's so fattening.

Something quick and something delicious for a company meal is made like this: scoop out tomatoes; fill with hunks of pineapple; dot with vitaminized margarine and bake 15 minutes in a moderately hot oven (375°F.).

Bottom, bottom, who's got the bottom? shoes have this Fall! And lots of them. o begin the search now for the old shoe buttoners.

Know Your State

A SOUND INVESTMENT

The latest report of the Federal Works Agency shows that Pennsylvania is still leading the Nation in the volume of public construction being carried on through departments of the State Government.

In both February and March of this year Pennsylvania awarded more public construction contracts than any other state. In 1948, during the first four months of the year, total highway improvements in Pennsylvania represented expenditures of $56,708,000, a total 85 per cent greater than that of the second state in highway improvement. More than one-seventh of all highway contracts awarded in the United States during that period were for Pennsylvania construction. During the same four months of the previous year, Pennsylvania had also led all states in the Nation in its total expenditures for highway development.

In the latest month for which comparable data are available, March, 1948, the total new public construction undertaken by the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania totaled $13,759,000, which was more than twice that of any other State government.

What is being done this year to bring the physical equipment of the State to the highest pitch of efficiency is a sound investment in Pennsylvania's future. Comparative employment figures between our own and other Northeastern States indicate that the investment is already beginning to pay off.

THE LONDON PLAGUE

This great Plague swept over London in 1625. It was called "London's Calamitie and Miserie." More than one-third of the population died.

With the decline of the Roman Empire, about 350 A.D., came the neglect of water supplies throughout Western Europe. Sanitary conditions reached a low ebb and disease and pestilence raged unchecked. The average span of life dropped to only twenty-five years. Even as late as 1600 A. D. no effective steps had been taken to obtain a water supply for London, then a city of 200,000. That is why the terrible Plague swept over the city.

History shows that mankind must have water... Without water human beings perish and civilization itself cannot exist. The progress and development of mankind... the struggle up from barbarism... the conquest of disease... the development of sanitation that prevents such Plagues as occurred in London, depend upon man's ability to get water... pure water... and plenty of it for drinking and bathing purposes.

This is the eighth of a series of narratives which graphically tell the story of water. The next will appear very soon.

CHOOSING A CAREER

JEWELRY REPAIRING AND ENGRAVING

There are no limits to the success and satisfaction to be attained by those who master the art of Engraving and Jewelry Repairing. Never in history has a career in this fascinating field offered greater opportunities. The skill of a well-trained engraver and jewelry repair man earns for himself the confidence and respect of professional men everywhere. Never in the history of America have so many had the desire to become independent through a specialized career. Whether in a business, the engraver enjoys conditions not generally in many lines of endeavor.

His work is clean, interesting, and the working surroundings are comfortable and attractive. The effort required is so light, that even a person with some physical handicap can be a successful engraver and jewelry repair man. The demand for men and women in this line of endeavor is great owing to the fact that a very large percentage of jewelers all over the country are compelled to send this work out to be done. Remuneration is much above the average of many specialized lines.

Held Under Bail After Accident

A. Craig Boyd, 44, of 145 Montgomery Ave., Cynwyd, has been held under $5,000 bail, according to Collingswood, N. J., police, pending the outcome of injuries of a Camden, N. J., man, who was struck in Collingswood Monday afternoon by an automobile driven by Boyd.

Boyd told police that Anthony Cassella, 53, of Camden, stepped from the curb into the path of his machine as he was driving north on Crescent Boulevard, near Haddon Ave. Cassella operates a newsstand at the intersection.

Taken to West Jersey Hospital where physicians said he suffered a possible fractured skull and lacerations of both knees, Cassella signed his own release papers and went home after treatment.

Boyd, who has a summer home in Ocean City, N. J., is a painting contractor and operates the Cynwyd Painting and Decorating Company from his home. He is a former president of the Ardmore Optimist Club and former Lieutenant-Governor and Governor of the Second District, Optimist International.

Should We Follow Rules Or Make Exceptions?

During the discussion preceding the departure of the United States Olympic team for England for these long awaited games, Bill Beck, enterprising president of the Cleveland Indians, put in his bid, as follows:
"The committee should be allowed to pick three to five men aside from the tryouts. Suppose we picked the All-Star team on the basis of one day's play and ignored the rest of the season. That's what they do."

You must admit it is a suggestion of merit and I do. When everybody, including the Olympic Committee, knows Gil Dadds is our best miller, it seems unjust to leave him behind simply because he gets an injury at the time of the final tryouts, when he has won all those leading up to pay-off. On the other hand, the fact remains that the last one was the pay-off. Dadds is not a good hook on which to hang the discussion, for as it turned out, his leg injury was worse than believed at first, and his doctor said Gil could not run in the games, no matter what decision the committee made in his favor.

Talk-Harrison Dillard or Chuck Fonville, then. Injury did not figure in their failures. To every one's surprise, Dillard overdid himself in the A. A. U. meet, ran too many races in short a time, and was beaten in his specialty, the hurdles, after he had set a phenomenal winning streak in the event.

SHOULD NOT THE SPOILS BELONG TO THE VICTORS?

I'm only guessing, but it seems to me it must have shaken his confidence completely, for in the final trials, he just didn't have it. That's all you can say for a fellow who knocks down four hurdles and drops out of the race. Other competitors did have it in the crucial test and made the grade. To deprive them of what they fairly earned certainly would be unjust. O. K. So much for that. Now for Vecek's idea, which is in effect just this: to let contenders sit up to them to point for a deciding contest which will put them on the ground or keep them off—and then, if they miss, well, take them along anyhow. Maybe that's not an ideal method, either, come to think of it. I'm not knocking Vecek's suggestion; I said in the beginning it had merit. But I know it would cause a barrel of dissension; those who missed out and were NOT among the three or five chosen at the discretion of the committee would never forgive it.

But it was a good time for Vecek to keep quiet anyway. Especially right after his man, Bob Feller, had been chosen on a certain team, by the very method Vecek suggested—and then decided not to bother to play for it.

Oakmont Girl Places Third In Junior Olympics

Dorothy Hibberd, of Oakmont, placed third in the standing broad jump for girls 14 to 16 at the 1948 Junior Olympics concluded Saturday afternoon at Penn's Franklin Field.

A Haverford student, Dorothy leaped seven feet, one inch to trail Nancy Meskers, Disston, and Eleanor Fisher, competing unattached. The victor's effort was seven feet, three inches.

A total of 2,000 boys and girls from all sections of the city and suburbs—and several up-State areas—competed in the two-day Junior Olympics program, following preliminary eliminations in outlying communities. Eight qualified for each of the 37 events following Friday's trials.

Among those eligible for Saturday's finals, staged in a light sprinkling of rain, were Don Froey, Brookline youngster who was third in the 50-yard dash for boys 8 to 10; Mike Stanislawski, Haverford, third in the junior broad jump trials; Dick Lomax, Haverford Junior High, placed second in the sixth heat of the 50-yard dash for boys 13 to 14; Jenny Gordy, Narberth, and Sue Gordy, Ardmore Jr. High, who had identical 8.4 second clockings in the junior girls' 60-yard dash.

Bob Kearney, Haverford Junior High student who placed in the preliminary trials at the Brookline Field, was second in his heat of the 100-yard dash, registering an 11.1-second clocking.

Gross Post Team Ties Local A. A.

Farren A. C., a last minute substitute for the Gross Post, furnished the Havertown A. A. team with tough opposition Monday when the two teams met on the Brookline Square Club field.

Allie Corrog's charges got a 4-1 early lead, but the Philadelphia boys kept pecking away and finished with a well-earned tie, 4-4. Walt Armstrong, Larry Aigeldinger, and Bill Ash slammed two hits apiece for the local team.

Highlight of the game was Armstrong's leaping stab for a liner which he managed to convert into a double play. The local team has a record so far this season of 10 wins, one loss, and two ties.

The line-up for Monday's game was:

LESSON-SERMON
"Truth" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in All Churches of Christ. Scientist, on Sunday, July 25. The Golden Text is: "Ascribe ye greatness unto our God. He is the Rock, his work is perfect: for all his ways are judgment: a God of truth and without iniquity, just and right is he" (Deuteronomy 32:3, 4).

Manoa Legion To Play Crucial Game on Friday

Manoa Post 667 Junior Legion baseball team, still setting a blistering pace in the Delaware County Legion League, will play Swarthmore Legionnaires at the Havertown High field in Brookline Friday night in a game which may decide the county crown.

Thus far, Manoa has won nine of 10 starts, dropping only an 11-7 decision to Darby in its second game of the season. Norwood is only a half-game behind the locals, with Manoa scheduled to invade that club's field Wednesday night.

If it succeeds in capturing the Delaware County championship, George Allen's Manoa machine will be eligible for the Pennsylvania playoffs, competing first in the inter-county eliminations.

Nick Lanser, southpaw ace who has hurled two no-hit, no-run games for Manoa this year, is expected to get the nod against Swarthmore. Tony James, like Lanser the mainstay of Havertown, is expected to work against Norwood, with either Bill Fallon or Danny Fitzpatrick behind the bat. Other members of Manoa's team include Bill Albright, first base; Walt Doyle, captain and West Catholic athlete, second base; Jim Hale, shortstop; Ray Morris, third, with Jim Coulter, Bud Sullivan and Sam Fanelli in the outfield.

Most of the members of Manoa's 17-player squad are either past or present Havertown High athletes, although several are Catholic League products. All are under 18 years.

Oakmont Nine, Llanerch to Meet

Oakmont, a 16-6 victor over Polo Grounds in its opener, will meet Llanerch at the latter's field this Thursday (July 22) in a Havertown Township Elementary Playgrounds Baseball League game.

In other league games Thursday, Manoa will invade Brookline and Polo Grounds will play at Chestnutwood. Llanerch triumphed over Merwood 6-5 in the only other inaugural game played.

Three games will be played next Tuesday. Oakmont will play at Brookline, Manoa invades Chestnutwood and Llanerch plays host to Polo Grounds.

Rules of the Havertown Township Elementary School League, which opened during the regular school season, apply in the new playgrounds circuit, sponsored by Steve Juenger's recreation program. Boys who passed their 13th birthday before July 1 and those who are in or have passed—seventh grade are ineligible, however.
